The Washington Service Corps and AmeriCorps

AmeriCorps is a national network of hundreds of service programs. It partners with nonprofits, schools, and faith-based and government organizations throughout the U.S. to serve communities with the greatest needs.

The Washington Service Corps, administered by the state Employment Security Department, is one of the largest AmeriCorps programs in the country.

Through the Washington Service Corps, you can:

- Tutor and mentor underprivileged youths.
- Educate about nutrition.
- Provide access to health care.
- Build affordable housing.
- Teach computer skills.
- Restore streams and habitat.
- Provide after-school programs.
- Teach environmental stewardship.

Why join?

Perhaps college is not an option for you or maybe it's in your future. Maybe you're unsure of your career path or know exactly where you want to work. In any case, AmeriCorps can be your bridge. Gain experience, leadership skills, and clarify your personal and professional goals.

What are the benefits?

- A monthly living allowance.
- Learn about community service and social change.
- An education award that can be used toward college tuition, training and student loans.
- Student loan deferment.
- A big role in transforming communities.
- Medical benefits.
- Subsidized child care.
- Experience to build your career.

Service requirements and commitment

- AmeriCorps members commit to serve 40 hours a week for a 10½-month term.
- You must be at least 17 years old.
